

India cut honey tariffs for one country. Ours.

The first honey concession India has ever granted, and it is for New Zealand mānuka alone.

New Zealand is the first country India has ever granted a honey tariff concession: 75% off over five years, for mānuka alone. In a wellness obsessed, gifting driven market of 1.4 billion people, the shelf is there to be claimed before the copycats arrive.

-75%

Mānuka tariffs over five years, from 60% plus today: a first in any Indian trade agreement

1 origin

Mānuka grows wild in New Zealand and nowhere else; the moat is botanical

UMF / MGO

Independently certified potency: a premium Indian buyers can verify on the jar

WHAT WE DO FOR AN APIARY

India readiness

FSSAI registration, labelling and the health claim rules, handled end to end.

Brand building

The certified jar as the health forward luxury gift; education for buyers on UMF and MGO grading.

Channels that pay

Premium retail, five star hotels, wellness and corporate gifting, with Diwali and wedding season built into the calendar.

Collective scale

A limited portfolio of independent apiaries shipped together, so a small producer lands with the weight of a large one.

WHY MĀNUKA IS THE CLEANEST FIRST MOVER STORY IN THE AGREEMENT

- Diwali and wedding season gifting run on prestige: a certified New Zealand jar is the health forward luxury gift the market has been waiting for.
- Wellness is a mainstream Indian purchase, and mānuka arrives as the world's most studied honey with grading Indian premium buyers can trust.
- Origin cannot be copied. Australian and Chinese honey will follow the tariff cut; only New Zealand can say mānuka and mean it.
